

From: parker@narnia.otr.usm.edu@inetgw
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 12/10/01 11:29am
Subject: are you kidding me?

By allowing Microsoft to extend their monopoly even further by training the children in schools (government subsidized training!) to use Microsoft software is wrong! Their should be another operating system or at the least non-Microsoft applications on the machines placed in schools, if indeed that route is to be taken. The courts have decided that Microsoft is indeed a monopoly and some measure of 'real' punitive damage should be administered against the company. A breakup may be too harsh but to allow them to benefit from their wrong doing is doing us, the American People, a great disservice and a horrible injustice. A hope you will do your job and represent us the people instead of them the special interest.

--

William Parker
United States Citizen